The Quill Pen

of 1947

175th Anniversary Issue

Presented by the Students of
SALEM ACADEMY
Winston-Salem, North Carolina

*HERE in the heart of these deep woods
In the peace and bosomed richness of these fields
Our forefathers came, seeking a dwelling place . . .
Here upon this very spot, this sacred place, they stood
And set their living credo up, a faith
Like a tree to flourish by the waterside.*

“Song in the Wilderness”
by PAUL GREEN.
Used by permission of University Press,
Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

To You . . .

the Girl of the Past, who out of the wilderness and confusion of a land, young and new, extracted and combined the materials of patience, work, fortitude, and love that made possible the establishment of Salem;

the Girl of the Present, the receiver of this gift of the past and the custodian of this gift for the future;

the Girl of the Future, now formless and nameless, who will add your name to those girls of the past and present as the years add their blessings to Salem . . .

We, on the 175th anniversary of our school, lovingly dedicate this annual.

HOWARD E. RONDTHALER

President

Ph.D., L.L.D., University of North Carolina;
B.D., M.A., D.D., Moravian Theological Seminary.

Salem has the excitement of spring all year with the delightful notation of its surroundings brought by Dr. Rondthaler's visits to chapel. Besides his smiles of good will there is the essence of philosophy which everyone enjoys.

MARY A. WEAVER

Principal

A.B., Randolph-Macon Woman's College; M.A.,
Columbia University; University of Wisconsin;
Harvard University.

The students of Salem Academy, past and present, join unanimously to express their deep respect and affectionate gratitude to Miss Weaver, whose unceasing kindness, patience, and thoughtfulness have helped so many to regulate their school days and lives.

Presidents' Council

Front Row, L. to R.: Foard, Susong, Lindsay, Robinson, Broyhill.
Second Row: Dalton, Greer, Adams, Baumann, Geitner, Harper.
Back Row: Currie, E., Johnstone, Currie, K., McRae.

The newest organization at Salem, the Presidents' Council, was organized in the fall of this year. The membership of this council is made up of the presidents and heads of the various groups, and its purpose is to promote interest and cooperation between the organizations and to train leaders for the following years.

Student Council

Front Row, L. to R.: Couch, Harper, Matthews.
Second Row: Priestley, Stanley, CeKada, Coleman.
Third Row: Taylor, Parker, Hamilton.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

ALTHEA CEKADA.....President

HELEN STANLEY.....Secretary

The Student Council is made up of a president, six representatives, two senior councillors, and a day-student member, all elected by the students. This group works in cooperation with the administration in the interest of the student body and the school at large. The basic idea that the Student Council endeavors to instill in all Salem girls is: "A higher degree of student government comes through self-government."

Honor Council

Back row: Currie, K., Robinson, CeKada, Scholl, Lassiter.

HONOR COUNCIL

LUCY FRANCES HARPER.....Chairman
Althea CeKada, Kitty Currie, Betty Lassiter, Carma Lindsay, Sara Gertrude Page, Nancy Robinson, Rebecca Scholl.

Student Government at Salem Academy is based on the honor system. The Honor Council tries to further this honor system, to instill in each girl a higher degree of integrity, and to act as a judiciary body in case of alleged violations of the honor code.

Spiritual Steering Wheel

Back Row: Susong, Watkins, Stollings, Robinson, Broyhill, Harper.

President.....NANCY ROBINSON
Sponsor.....MISS ALICE WELLS

Adams, Broyhill, Dalton, Denny, Foard, Harper, L., Joyner, Robinson, Stamey, Stollings, Susong, Watkins.

The Spiritual Steering Wheel seeks to strengthen the ties between the religious and the academic life of each Salemite. The organization strives toward this goal through many activities in all phases of school life.

Class Poem

DAYS IN JUNE

June 2, 1947 . . .

Trunks and suitcases line the halls.
There is a tremendous flurry of last minute packing.
From one room to another a girl softly calls—
Softly, for one last examination is being held
For a few unlucky ones. The school
Is as it has been before many vacations.
But one thing is different. As a rule
Leaving is not so final; each one knows
That she will return when the holiday
Is over. Now tomorrow each
Will go her own separate way
And no longer be a student here.

June 3, 1947 . . .

The final rituals begin:
Closing chapel, the reading of "School Days,"
Recognition Day, the honors and awards,
Class Day, held as the last bright rays
Of the sun filter through the dell.
More hurrying and excitement. At last
The white garbed rows begin their slow procession—
Slow, in truth, but oh, it seems too fast!
Then, the diplomas—and the recession.
Weeping and laughing all at once,
The thirty-five are congratulated.

June 4, 1947 . . .

Silence throbs and echoes through the building;
The noisy bustling of a hundred girls is still.
For three long, lonely months it will be thus,
But then once more the halls will start to fill.
And Salem's story will begin again.

To whom it may concern:

We, the class of nineteen hundred and forty-seven, being supposedly of sound mind and body and realizing the uncertainty of this life, do hereby publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I

To the faculty we leave our appreciation for their help and guidance during the year.

ARTICLE II

To the rising Senior Class we leave our wonderful privileges and honor study halls, hoping they will mean as much to them as they have meant to us.

ARTICLE III

Elizabeth Currie leaves her big city background to Sally Backenstoe.

Althea (Ish) CeKada bequeaths her curly hair to Nancy Bryan. Enough said.

Betty Crawford leaves her poetic talents to Carol Augur in hopes that the combination will make good verse.

Martha Funk leaves her fifty cent words to Mary Catherine Burton.

Natalie Goodman leaves her Florida suntan to Betty Stokes.

Jane Taylor bequeaths Wagner to all lovers of good music—and men.

Betty Burton leaves her sultry come hither look to Jeanette Joyner.

Lucy Frances Harper wills her femininity to Jean McRae.

Ora Lee Scott leaves her homemaking instincts to Lee Fleshman.

Peggy Thackston leaves several inches to Dora Barraza.

Lillian Johnstone leaves her 1968 G.O.P. campaign speeches to the whole school.

Eleanor Rose bequeaths her basketball whistle to Marilyn McDonald.

Elsie Shaw wills her masculine cartoons to Lucy Foard.

Mildred Matthews leaves her Kappa Sig key to—no, she changed her mind.

Lucy Adams bequeaths her Alabama accent to Bobbie McIntosh.

Betty Greer leaves her reliable income of mail to all those hopeful new girls.

Nancy Steelman wills Tyrone Power to Carma Lindsay.

Nancy Robinson leaves her attraction to sailboats and those who sail them to Peggy Swartz.

Julia Parker will keep her silver bracelets but leaves her big ears and brown eyes to Lucy Wright.

Douglas Rushton leaves the pictures of her brother to 2CS. Now fight for 'em.

Alice Geitner wills her long legs to Connie Neal.

Nancy Hunt leaves with best wishes her McCallie ring to Tappy Bruff.

Amy Watkins leaves her measured smile to Fay Sylvester.

Margaret (Corky) Stollings wills her art for jitterbugging to Phyllis Guigou.

Betty Stamey leaves Rutherfordton to anyone who can pronounce it.

Ann Johnson leaves her absent mindedness — especially at playing bridge — to Mary Alice Longcrier.

Anne Coleman leaves her fickleness concerning the opposite sex to Carol Shockey.

Barbara Ramsay wills her frankness to Joe Susong.

Becky Hayes leaves her bellbottom trousers and quietness to Betty Rankin.

Betty Broyhill wills her music ability to Ann Franklin.

Annie Frances Dalton leaves Jeter to anyone who can take him away.

Vicki Hamilton wills her ability to do anything to anyone who needs it.

Betty Read McIlwaine wills her sweet disposition to Emily Boyd who really doesn't need it.

Helen Stanley says she needs everything she has and won't part with a single item.

Anne English leaves her violent blushes to Ann Perry.

ARTICLE IV

We hereunto set our signatures and affix the seal on this, the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and forty-seven.

Class Prophecy . . .

Spring, 1957—Although no one has ever noticed me, a little gremlin living in the rug of the Salem Academy entrance hall, I have been living there since the door to the new building was opened in 1930. Living underfoot as I do I know only a trampled life, but it is a life made interesting by the conversations I hear. (Of course I listen. Suppose you lived in a rug.) On this day in April the telegraph boy came to the door, and I listened with interest to the contents of the yellow message. One of the Salem girls, Alice Geitner, was opening on Broadway in a new play, Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire. It seemed only yesterday, although, if I remember correctly it was ten years ago, that Alice, whom her friends called Cissie, had opened in that same play on the Salem stage. Memories came back to me, and I decided that I needed to get out of that rug and try some new rug in New York for a while. After I had dusted myself off, I crawled into the back seat of Miss Weaver's car and settled down for a nice trip to the city.

Although I wasn't trampled upon on my way to New York, I was sat on; and, as a consequence, I didn't get too much sleep. Finally I crawled into the pocket of the car and stayed there until we arrived in New York. There I was so anxious to see Cissie (I always called the presidents of the classes by their familiar names) that I went immediately to the theater. Picking up a program in the lobby I read that Ora Lee Scott had designed the costumes for the play; another Salem girl's name was listed, too—Jane Taylor, who was in charge of make-up for the performance.

I slipped down into the rug in the aisle and made my way to a seat that would show me the celebrities. I almost fell out of the upholstery when I saw Senators Lil Johnstone and Peggy Thackston come in together. I had heard that they were not speaking since their debate in the Senate on the United States foreign policy. Ambassador Martha Funk and her secretary, Helen Stanley, came in. Both were finding the earth very earthy since they had just returned from Mars. Sitting in a box that I couldn't possibly reach through the crowd were three world headliners: Vicki Hamilton, the musician; Althea CeKada, a Powers model; and Dr. N. Goodman, surgeon for What-Ails-You. In the press box where John Mason Brown used to sit was Julia Parker. Mr. Brown was attending the inauguration of Amy Watkins as governor of Georgia.

At the rise of the curtain I decided that I would just go right up on the stage with Cissie and encourage her. I crawled into the soft curtain and found myself being pulled along until I could have spoken to Douglass Rushton, an experienced curtain puller. Behind stage I also found Fran Dalton. I strained my eyes to find the wedding ring on her finger but found only her Salem class ring. Hearing a stir out in the audience I jumped on the curtain again and saw Lucy Adams walking up and down the aisle. She was evidently gathering material for her latest book on the psychological effects of color.

Picking up an invitation from the dressing table I read that Betty Crawford, wife of the manager of the Waldorf Astoria, was entertaining for the members of the class of 1947 after the play. When the play was over I jumped into the pocketbook of Eleanor Rose, who had left a secretarial job to marry her boss, and let her carry me to the hotel.

On the banquet table I saw familiar drawing on the placecards and I knew that Barbara Ramsay, an outstanding artist, was there. Since she hadn't made a card for me, I snuggled into my usual place in the rug. Bits of conversation drifted down to me . . . Nancy Hunt was on an island in the Pacific, living on monkey meat and raising grass for a livelihood . . . Corky Stollings had succeeded John L. Lewis as head of the miners . . . With Ringling Brothers Circus in Europe were Fish Johnson, an acrobat (who had recently recovered from a romance with a clown) and Elizabeth Currie, the human skeleton (her diet finally proved too much for her) . . . Nancy Robinson was making an exciting ship . . . around the world with her dashing husband . . . Ann English had become a washing machine agent . . . Miss Betty Stamey left her nursery in Rutherfordton to attend the play . . . she said that Betty Burton, due to her movie fame, was traveling incognito through Europe.

Wait! Who's that coming in late? Betty Greer and Nancy Steelman. Betty, now at the top of her chosen profession, pro football, had invited her former classmate, a famed correspondent in Berlin, to report on one of her beautiful games . . . I noticed that Elsie Shaw, the Metropolitan Opera star, seemed to be talking quite a bit; so I slipped down to that end of the table and found that Betty Read McIlwaine was just beginning her second great true story, To Love Or Not . . . It seems that Ann Coleman furnishes the real life episodes that take place in Betty's stories—occasionally Rebecca Hayes, now Mrs. Tom Moore, gives Betty Read an idea. Why is Rosie so amused? I think I'll slide down a bit more to hear . . . Poor Mil Matthews, who lives in Goldsboro with her family of seven boys, is unable to be present because of the illness of one of the younger members . . . I just heard Lucy Harper, the noted harpist, tell Rosie that she was giving up her career to marry Charles. Such is life! My life! Although the future always brings the fulfillment of many wonderful things for Salem girls, the only future I know is covered by the rug in Salem entrance hall. There I belong and there I made my way back from New York, so that I could snuggle once more in the threads of its life and listen, listen, listen.

Sports

Sports hold a favorite spot in the heart of every Salem girl. Each year there is a division of the student body into two rival teams, the Purples and Golds. Stiff competition is given by both teams as they contend for the silver cup presented on Recognition Day at the end of the year.

EXPERIENCE IS THE BEST TEACHER!

EXPERIENCE TAUGHT MILLIONS THE DIFFERENCES IN CIGARETTE QUALITY!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Result: Many millions more people found that they liked Camels best.

Your "T-Zone"
will tell you...

T for Taste...

T for Throat...

That's your proving ground for any cigarette.
See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone"
to a T.

IT'S ONLY a memory now, the war cigarette shortage. But it was during that shortage that people found themselves comparing brands whether they intended to or not.

And millions more people found that the rich, full flavor of Camel's superb blend of choice tobaccos suited their Taste to a "T." And that their Throats welcomed the kind of cool mildness Camels deliver.

Thus the demand for Camels grew so great that today more people are smoking Camels than ever before. But, no matter how great the demand, this you can be sure of:

We don't tamper with Camel quality. Only choice tobaccos, properly aged, and blended in the time-honored Camel way, are used in Camels.

According to a recent Nationwide survey:
MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS
than any other cigarette

When three independent research organizations asked 113,597 doctors — What cigarette do you smoke, Doctor? — the brand named most was Camel!
